

Atlanta Global Research and Education Collaborative (AGREC)

Connecting globally while grounded at home

Call for Proposals

2021-22

The Atlanta Global Research and Education Collaborative (AGREC) seeks to build and strengthen collaborative networks of multi-institutional scholars and practitioners to support global research and education initiatives in the Greater Atlanta region. Housed within the Atlanta Global Studies Center (AGSC), the AGREC initiative comprises six universities including Emory University, Georgia Institute of Technology, Georgia State University, Agnes Scott College, Spelman College, and Kennesaw State University. AGREC intends to grow the collaborative and invites other universities to join this initiative. For the academic year of 2021-2022, the application is open to all six universities and they may invite members from other universities to join their collaborative project. A team must comprise at least two faculty from two different AGREC member institutions, and include at least one community partner (community organization, corporation, or a public sector organization). Teams may include additional faculty members from any university/college in the Greater Atlanta region. These multi-institutional teams may apply for funding in the range of $5,000-15,000 for FY 2021 (funds must be expended by June 20, 2022). Preference will be given to innovative, transformative collaborative research and education projects in global engagement with significant emphasis on their potential to develop new and strategic sustainable relationships among partners (e.g. universities, companies, NGOs, community organizations) and their impact on Atlanta communities.

AGREC is a research and education collaborative comprised of five universities in Atlanta AGSC, a partnership of Georgia Tech and Georgia State University

- Emory University's Office of Global Strategy and Initiatives (GSI)
- Agnes Scott College's SUMMIT Center for Global Learning and Leadership Development
- Spelman College's Gordon Zeto Center for Global Education
- Kennesaw State University

The aim of AGREC is to:

- connect the Greater Atlanta region's international assets through an emphasis on supporting "global at home" projects that serve students, faculty, and community partners
- enhance and broaden institutional partnerships amongst universities in Greater Atlanta
- create and strengthen global networks of scholars and practitioners in Greater Atlanta
- raise the profile of Atlanta region as a whole, making Greater Atlanta a hub for global education and research through innovative collaborative educational and research projects from various disciplines

AGREC invites scholars to submit collaborative projects across disciplines, institutions, and universities that address a need in our global and local communities. This call aims to address topics with a global connection while being grounded locally. Scholars and practitioners may examine a local and global problem in the form of research, workshop, forum, training program or suggest another approach by collaborating with an organization in Atlanta or a population group that has a global dimension.

The proposed outcomes/deliverables could include:

- Creation of research and teaching communities and production of publications
- Lasting Student Programs that could include engagement in the form of an extracurricular activity involving local/global communities that can be duplicated across universities in Atlanta and abroad

- Sustained Globally-Connected Community Projects that would continue beyond the university engagement serving as seed funding and effort for receiving additional funding

Project and Co-PI Eligibility

- Must examine an issue in Greater Atlanta from a global perspective and engage local communities
- Must be initiated by two current full-time university faculty or academic professional/academic staff at two different AGREC member institutions whose disciplines are relevant to the proposed project
- Teams may include additional faculty members and academic professional/academic staff from any university/college in the Greater Atlanta region
- Must partner with one or more community organizations or a corporation or a public sector organization in Greater Atlanta

- Migration and Population
- Linguistic Diversity
- Sustainability including Atlanta's Urban Status, Transportation
- Race and Justice/Inequities
- Income Inequality
- One or more of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (UN SDGs)
- Open topic to be suggested by applicants

Principles of Partner and Community Engagement

These are guiding principles for establishing partnerships in the community:

- Aligns with the university and partner organization's vision and mission
- Partnership must be mutually beneficial
- Results must be measurable (e.g., # of boards serving; amount of diversity spending; sustainability metrics)
- Impact must focus on connecting local and global dimensions
- Partner(s) must be fully engaged in the project
- The project must provide new opportunities to grow (faculty expertise, resources), and exhibits "staying power."
- Partner organizations must be appropriately compensated for time and resources

Application Materials and Process

The following documents should be submitted as a single PDF:

- 1) Narrative [3-5 pages] that addresses:
 - a. Proposed project and its potential impact

 - c. Contributions/role of each team member
 - d. A specific plan for community engagement
 - e. A specific sustainability plan
 - f. Project timeline
- 2) A budget

Budget notes:

- Funds will be disbursed through the relevant AGREC university members to their respective PIs
 - Funds will be disbursed to the Co-Pi's according to the rules and practices of the awarding institutions
 - Awardees can use the funding for travel, events, materials, and stipends for community partners.
 - Faculty/graduate students salary support is not encouraged but will be considered under exceptional circumstances that are justified.
 - Funds cannot be used for food or alcohol.
 - There is no matching requirement but matching funds from non-AGREC members is welcomed
 - There is no indirect cost.
 - Funds will be disbursed according to the policy and practices of the AGREC member university of the PIs awarded
- 3) CVs of the Co-PIs (Include CVs of any additional team members if applicable. CVs of community members are NOT required)
- 4) Letter of support/intent from the community partner(s)

Upon completion of the project, recipients of AGREC funding will need to provide a report summarizing their activities and findings and future plans.

Selection Process

A review committee comprised of multi-disciplinary and multi-university scholars and practitioners from diverse organizations who have not currently applied will review the applications and provide a scoring grade of the applications on the basis of academic quality, sustainability, and impact. The selection of the committee will be administered by AGSC.

Deadline for applications: July 1, 2021 , 11:59pm EST

Anticipated announcement of awards: August 13, 2021
